Many Long Time Leaders Meet for Their Last Term. Short Session Held.

ECONOMY IS THE WATCHWORD NOW

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—Congress reassembled at noon today in a session of more than usual interest and importance, because in three months it expires by constitutional limitation and the control of the house of representatives will be surrendered to the Democratic party.

Impelling curiosity to see how men long in the public eye as statements of commanding influence would bear up under the crumbling of their political fortunes, drew to the capitol at an early hour a crowd of unusual proportions.

Early work on the appropriation bills has cleared the way for prompt consideration of these measures and one or more of them will be reported to the house this week. Strenuous efforts have been made by president Taft and other administration leaders to keep the budget down to the lowest possible limit.

Today's session was perfunctory and brief, as the president's message and the first batch of presidential nominations will be withheld until tomorrow.

Congress convened promptly at noon, there being a good attendance at both houses.

Speaker Cannon received a remarkable ovation when he took up the gavel. The applause lasted several minutes, the Democrats joining the Republicans in acclaiming the veteran legislator.

Representative Champ Clark also gave a similar ovation, the Democrats hailing him as speaker of the next house.

Both houses adjourned almost immediately after formally dismissing the speaker.

Andrews, Smith and Cameron.

At roll call representative W. E. Smith of the 16th Texas district, and delegates Andrews and Cameron of Arizona and New Mexico, were present. In the senate, Bailey and Culberson were both present.

Andrews introduced a bill that 300,000 acres of land, to be selected under the direction of the secretary of the interior, be donated to J. B. Fitzaville and his family, for the maintenance and support of a manual training school for the youth of New Mexico. It was read twice and referred to the committee on territories.

Cameron introduced a bill that the board of control of Arizona, on or before the second Monday in August 1911, authorize a tax levy the same as the year ending June 30, 1911, for the year ending June 30, 1912, for territorial institutions. It also authorizes the payment to the fair committee for sums paid or obligated to be paid not exceeding $10,000, also a bill providing the killing of antelope prior to March 1, 1915, a misdemeanor, not to apply to antelope in a public park.

Representative E. M. Lively of Texas, succeeded in introducing a bill, which was carried to the speaker's desk by congressman Stevens shortly after the session commenced today and took the oath of office.

Senator Culberson received many congratulations on his recovery.

Governor Sloan is here and will remain several days.

Insurgents Militant.

The white house is a mecca of many insurgent Republicans today. Some said they had been invited by the president. Senator Bristow of Kansas was among the first callers. He was quickly followed by representatives Norris of Nebraska, Murdock and Madison of Kansas, and Hayes of California.

Although they admit that efforts at conciliation are in the air, the insurgents continue to sing a militant tune.

Representative Murdock declared he had traveled all over the country during the last three months and he knew the temper of the people.

People Want Revival.

"They want the woolen schedule revised at this session of congress, regardless of whether the tariff board is ready to report," said Mr. Murdock. "Everybody is talking wool and a revision of the tariff, no schedule at a time. They are willing to wait for everything except wool, and when the schedule is revised, the people want wool in cloth tagged to show the amount of wool and the amount of cotton in it. The people want congress to do something and quit talking so much. The people also have their eye on the higher courts and don't want decisions rendered merely on technicalities."

American Says All His Timber Cutters Quit to Join Them Near Madera.

"HOT FIGHTING MUST FOLLOW"

That the Mexican government can never regain control of northern Chihuahua without a tremendous loss of life and a heavy expenditure of money is the declaration of Lee Gunn, former lumber camp No. 2 of the Pearson Lumber company, who reached El Paso today, returning to his home at Marion, South Carolina. He declares that the revolutionists have absolute control of all the towns in the Sierra Madre region of northern Mexico and that the Mexican regulars cannot drive them out without a long campaign, if at all. He says most of his workmen quit to join the insurgents and as a result he had no camp Madera, as he came home. En route from Madera, which he says is in the hands of the insurgents, the train, being a white flag to indicate that no Mexican soldiers were aboard, was met at every stop by insurgent officers also carrying white flags, and searched.

He says all Americans were treated courteously and also that they receive most cordial treatment in the towns. He brought out a collection of postal card photographs of the insurgents, many of them showing groups of officers. They are so confident of success that he says they are making no attempt to conceal their identity. Printed on some of the postals of the insurgent photographer are the names of many of the insurgent leaders before their photographs. While the train service between Madera and Chihuahua was interrupted, Mr. Gunn says over 50 people walked overland to Pearson, where they could catch a train to El Paso.

He says all women and children have been sent out by American agents and preparations are ready for hot fighting. The fighting is expected at once, he says, as troops were going out from Chihuahua as he came in Saturday. He confirms the report that the Mexican troops in the battle of Perdenales who were not killed joined the insurgents. He says the mayor of Madera, when the town fell into revolutionary hands, fled to El Paso and then back to Chihuahua, and that the federal officials of Chihuahua now have him a prisoner for deserting his post, although he was the only man in the town who refused to join the insurgents. "The insurgents at Temascal, Madera, La Junta and other places in the region," declared Mr. Gunn, "have been preparing for months for this trouble and they are ready to give the Mexican government the fight of its life if they don't win. I believe the first time the Mexican troops lose a real big battle, it will show the weakness of the government and result in thousands flocking to the revolutionists."

It must be remembered that the army of the United States Maximalism was as small as the present revolutionary army when it started towards Mexico City, and it was made up of these fighters of northern Mexico," he said in conclusion.

Mrs. Eddy, The Founder of Christian Science, Dies In Her Home In Boston

MRS. MARY BAKER EDDY
FROM DRAWING BY H. W. COOPER

MORE RETURNS IN BRITISH ELECTIONS

Both Sides Seem Pleased at Results of First Balloting.

London, England, Dec. 5.—Another batch of unopposed returns in the parliament elections today made the status of the parties this afternoon as follows:

Government coalition Liberals, 56; Laborites, 8; Irish Nationalists, 7; total 71.

Opposition: Unionists, 78.

Polling took place in 67 constituencies today returning 75 members.

Although the returns indicate that the next parliament will be similar in complexion to that of the dissolved house, both sides profess to be pleased with the results.

The Liberals point out that every Unionist majority in Birmingham was reduced and that the Liberals improved their position in Wolverhampton and other manufacturing districts under Chamberlain influences.

The London boroughs, like Birmingham, also show an increased majority for the Liberals, who anticipate that their success in Manchester and London will greatly influence the coming contest.

She Passes Away Saturday Night, But News Not Announced Until Sunday.

Announcement of the Passing of the Founder of Christian Science.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 5.—Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy, the founder of "Christian Science," is dead. Announcement of the passing of the venerable leader which occurred late Saturday night at her home at Chestnut Hill, was made at the morning service of the Mother church in this city Sunday.

Officials of the mother church of Christian Science decided this afternoon that the funeral of Mrs. Eddy would take place at 11 o'clock. The services will be simple in deference to Mrs. Eddy's wishes. Her son, Geo. W. Glover, will be present from South Dakota.

In deference to Mrs. Eddy's well known taste for simplicity, the funeral services probably will be private, consisting of prayer and reading from the Bible, with selections from "Science and Health."

It is probable also that interment will be at Tilton, N. H., where Mrs. Eddy's husband, George W. Glover, is buried. It is possible, however, that the remains will be buried in the crypt of the mother church at Boston, as many high in the standing of the church favor such.

"Natural causes" explained the death, according to Dr. Geo. L. West, a district medical examiner, who was summoned a few hours after Mrs. Eddy passed away. Later Dr. West added that the more immediate cause probably was pneumonia.

"She had been indisposed for about nine days," said Alfred Farlow, of the Christian Science publication committee, "but had been up and dressed, and as late as Thursday transacted some business with one of the officials of the church."

"She took her daily afternoon drive until two days before death. Saturday night she fell quietly asleep and those around her could at first hardly realize that she had gone. Her mind was clear until the last but she left no final message."

"No physician was in attendance, but she had the assistance of the students who comprised her household. With her at the time of her departure was Calvin A. Frye, Mrs. Laura E. Sargent, Mrs. Ella S. Rathvon, the Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson, her corresponding secretary; Wm. Rathvon and her secretary, Adam H. Dickey.

"No arrangements regarding the time or the place of her burial have been decided upon. It is well known to her household that she believed in simplicity on such occasions and, in compliance with this knowledge, it is expected the service will be private and of a simple nature, probably consisting of prayer and reading from the Bible with some brief selections from the Christian Science text book. Only her relatives, her household and the officials of the church are expected to be present.

"A telegram was sent to her son, Geo. W. Glover, of Lead, S. D., apprising him of his mother's demise, and requesting information as to his attendance and that of his family.

"Mrs. Eddy was born in Paw, N. H., July 16, 1821, and was therefore in her ninetieth year."

Future of the Work.

As the churchgoers scattered after the services, the question of future leadership was referred to with great reserve. Those who expressed a view said there would be no change in the methods of carrying on the work, that Mrs. Eddy's teachings and instructions would be implicitly followed.

It was pointed out that with the exten-
